SMALLEST BEAST OF PREY.

It is a True Weasel, but is Only About Six Inches Long.

The smallest carnivorous animal in the world is an American weasel which is numerous in northwest Canada and Alaska and is occasionally seen about the great lakes. It is a true weasel, but only six inches long, with a tail only one inch in length. All its upper surface is in summer pure umber brown, but the throat, abdomen and inside of the legs are pure white, and, unlike any other weasel, it has no black at the end of the tail; hence, although the animal turns white in the north in winter, it does not show the black tipped tail which characterizes an ermine pelt, and so it is not sought by trappers and fur traders.

This fact, with its small size and secretive life, has made its habits very little known, but they seem to be much like those of other weasels. It feeds on insects, which it finds alive in summer and in winter digs out of rotten logs; upon small birds, etc., but lives mainly on mice. These it can follow into their narrowest holes and runways, for it is scarcely larger than a field mouse itself, or, striking the trail of one, it will trace all its wanderings and as soon as it catches sight of its prey will spring after it with amazing and fatal rapidity.

It is frequently caught by naturalists in their mouse traps. An old Indian told W. H. Osgood of the biological survey, who thus captured one in southern Alaska, that it was a promise of rare good fortune. His brother, he related, had taken one when a boy and had in consequence become a big chief. A good name for this least of the carnivores would be "mouse hunter." It is known to science as Putorius ferox.—Harper's.

Rye Pasture For Pigs.

For fall litters there is nothing quite equal to a patch of rye. On the rye they and their dams will be much healthier and grow faster. In an open winter or where the ground is not covered with snow the rye field will furnish almost ideal green food for pigs at weaning time. Where green feed is not provided it too often happens that little or no growth is secured on fall pigs. In that case the profit is lacking, as a small amount of growth will not be sufficient even to pay for the feed that has been eaten. A patch of green, luscious rye will change all that and make the profit where otherwise there would be loss.—Farm Progress.

Winter Protection of Trees.

Mulching in spring and summer is very valuable for transplanted trees, but is dangerous in winter, as the straw furnishes a hiding place for the ground mice, which would ruin the trees by eating the bark. The white protection of the young trees should be the mound of earth, a foot or a high and eighteen inches in diameter.—National Stockman and Farmer.

The Value of Drainage.

Drainage removes the surplus water. Improves the character of the soil, makes the available supply of water more abundant, warms the soil and increases its available food supply, aerates it, prevents erosion and heaving, it increases plant growth.

PREACHER GIVES DANCE.

Middletown, Conn., Sept. 18.—A "turkey trot," a crowd of several hundred dancers at the Model Dance Pavilion, conducted by Rev. George B. Gilbert, at Lake View Park, started a small-sized riot Tuesday night which finally ended in a call for the local police.

Decorations were torn down at furnishings broken by the crowd. Finally the feed wire lighting the hall was put out of service.

Mr. Gilbert, who is a well-known Episcopal clergyman, opened the dance hall as an experiment early this summer, hoping to counteract the evil effect of the other dance halls, where no restrictions were placed on the dancers. This is the first time that he has experienced any trouble, but he announced that there would be no more dances at his hall.
